

This week, the honour of GOTW goes to Dave Mathieu. Dave excels in all his courses and has made an outstanding high school record. Dave is also one of the brilliant students in our Sec.V TAG program. His favorite subject is Physics taught by Mr. Jack Hemens. Besides getting high marks, Dave has participated in many school activities. Last year, Dave was a chorus line dancer in the school play BARNUM and he has also tried out for the play this year as well. Dave is also on the debating team and helps out with the PC FLAMINGO. This year, Dave joined the senior chess team and is proud to say that he was able to defeat the grandmaster Tupur twice. Dave also auditioned for the Carnival Variety Show last year and was the drummer in the legendary "Twisted Brother" music-comedy skit. Dave uses to play the trumpet and clarinet in our school band for many years. Out of school, his hobbies are collecting anything collectible, writing poetry, reading science-fiction and pondering profound thoughts like the philosophy of life and metaphysics. Two years ago, Dave's French professor Monsieur Vincent told Dave that there was something mysterious about Dave's mind and that it had great potential. Since Dave and Tupur were in the same French class, you can even ask Tupur to verify the incident should you have any doubts. Dave is also a well trained air cadet and one day hopes he will have enough money to purchase his own F-20 lightweight tactical fighter jet. His goal in life is to be an astronaut and an engineer (remember his poem last month). He will probably work with NASA and go on challenging space shuttle missions. Dave comes from a very large family with many brothers and sisters. In our school, there is his brother er Mike and his little sister Jen in grade eight who intends to keep his spirit alive after he graduates. Next we asked Dave to tell us about his love life. Dave claims that he is a real nice fellow and goes for the shy and intelligent type like a certain girl in our school with the initials 'G.C.'. Last of all, we had to ask Dave the most important question of all. How much faith does he have in the Tupur? Dave replied, "I really admire Tupur's approach to life." He further added, "I am glad to have a friend who shares similar ideas about the colonization of other planets in our solar system." Dave and Tupur have BIG surprises in store for the Year 2000 and someday are going to revolutionize Earth's scientific advancement like the history of this planet has never seen before. Unfortunately, this article must come to its inevitable conclusion so before we go, we'll leave you with advice from Dave. "Lighten up because life is dandy!"

P.C. VICE

WARNING: Due to some content which may be too violent or unsettling for our younger readers, juniors are advised not to read the thriller.

THE STENCH OF NICOTINE

This was one situation where Pocket and Tux had to use their brains to beat brute strength. Pocket took out a canister of highly compressed nitrous oxide and releases the gas into the air. An hour later after the gas had worn off. The students were in the classrooms and the hijackers awoke to find themselves locked up in the ISS room. The next day, Pocket and Tux were going over some paperwork in the library. Suddenly, Armadillo appears. He handed them a photograph. An informant had told him that the boy in the picture was some grade ten punk selling cigarettes to juniors. Pocket and Tux went down to the caf to look for the punk. They recognize him in the distance talking to a little junior. Suddenly Pocket realized who the punk is. He was Ortega DuMaurier, one of the notorious DuMaurier brothers. Ortega and the little junior went inside the boy's bathroom to make a deal in private. This was the perfect chance to catch Ortega red-handed. Pocket and Tux run inside the bathroom but Ortega is nowhere in sight. All they found was the little junior in the sink with a stillette sticking out of his chest. (Ortega had just pulled a rip-off.) Don't miss next week's episode because the DuMaurier bros. are back in action and something big is going to go down.....TO BE CONTINUED