THE GIRL NAMED SOPHIA

Pocket and Tux quickly jumped off the roof and into a snowbank to put out the flames. Afterwards, Tux used his 12-gauge to blow Miguel's brains out. Ortega and the junior surrendered instantly. On Monday, Pocket and Tux were relaxing in the library when suddenly this gorgeous blond came up to Pocket. Pocket gasps at the sight. The girl named Sophia tells Pocket that she used to work with Flamingo Intelligence. (WOW! Not only brains but beauty as well!) Then she stared at Pocket with her capricious blue eyes for a moment before leaving. On Tuesday, she came up to Pocket at recess and gave him her phone number. She then whispered with her seductive voice for him to call her that evening. On Wednesday, Sophia threw her arms around him then kissed him in the corridor. On Thursday, she asked Pocket to take her to the school dance on Friday. Pocket couldn't resist the temptation and decided to take her. Tux was beginning to get a bit suspicious of why she was coming on so strong. Friday evening came. Tux was busy in the computer room checking old FBI files. The files had no record of a Sophia working with the Flamingo Bureau of Intelligence at all. In the meanwhile, Pocket and Sophia were dancing the night away. Before, Pocket could realize it one thing was leading to another. Finally she said, "I have a special surprise for you-if you get what I mean." She whispered, "Let's go to the fire escape." The two were alone in the dark fire escape. She then says, "Now that we are alone, I'm going to make this one surprise you'll never forget!" Don't miss next issue because it might not be what you're expecting.
